Social Media Policy
2025-26

1. Policy Statement:

Automation Edge Technologies Private Limited (the "Company") recognizes the importance of social media as a tool for corporate and business engagement.

Use of social media can pose risks to the Company's confidential and proprietary information, reputation and can in some instances jeopardize compliance with legal obligations.

This Social Media Policy ("Social Media Policy") covers the use of all forms of social media without limitation, blogs, wikis, or any social networking sites such as Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, Snapchat, Twitter, Flickr, and YouTube, ("Social Networking Site(s)") all other internet postings, including video and photo sharing, forum and discussion boards and online encyclopedias.

2. Use of Social Media

The employees must be aware that their actions and whatever they post on social media has effect on the image of the concerned employee as well as the image of the Company as the information posted or published may be on display for a long time. Thus, adherence to this Social Media Policy is of utmost importance.

This Social Media Policy does not apply to an individuals' use of social media platforms where no reference is made, directly or indirectly to the Company, its products and services, its people, its clients, its competitors and/or other business-related individuals or organizations.

3. Guidelines:

The following sections of the Social Media Policy provide staffs and contractors with common sense guidelines and recommendations for using social media responsibly and safely:

a. Do not disclose, publish, or release any information which is considered as confidential information by the Company or its clients. You must not comment on, or disclose information about the Company, its employees, its clients, its contractors, its partners, its competitors and/or other business-related individuals or organizations in any social media platform. If you require clarification consult your line manager.
b. Do not set up any Social Networking Site which refer to any of the Company's names or brand marks (or otherwise identifies the Company) without approval from the Company.
c. Do not post any material that is (or may reasonably) be considered by others to be obscene or objectionable.
d. Do not make or respond to social media communications that could damage the Company's reputation even indirectly.
e. Do not disclose other people's personal information without their consent.
f. If you see content in social media that reflects poorly on the Company or its stakeholders, you should contact your line manager. All staff and contractors are responsible for protecting our business reputation.
g. Personal information deliberately or inadvertently obtained from Social Media Sites may not be used for recruitment selection verification purposes and may result in allegations of discriminatory behavior being brought against the Company.

h. Do not make any political comment in any circumstances where the Company name or your association with it is also mentioned, without reference to this Social Media Policy and practice.
i. Do not click or record any photos or videos on the Company's or its client's premises and post on any social media, without authorization from the management.
j. Ensure that you keep the Company related social media account/s separate from personal accounts.
k. Authorized person to use social media to represent the Company.
l. If your duties require you to speak on behalf of the organization in a social media or any other media environment, your manager may require you to undergo training before you do so and impose certain requirements and restrictions with regard to your activities.
m. You should be willing to complete any additional training to update your knowledge on emerging social trends and evolving best practice in social media when requested to do so.

4. Safeguards:

If you are authorized to use Social Networking Sites on behalf of the Company, you will usually be required to:

a. Disclose that you are an employee of the Company and be clear about which business unit you are representing and, if relevant what your role and accountabilities are.
b. Only disclose information that is publicly available or information you are authorized to disclose. You must not comment on or disclose confidential information of the Company (such as financial information, future business performance, business plans, imminent departure of key executives).
c. Ensure any content you publish is factually accurate and complies with relevant the Company policies.
d. Only offer advice, support or comment on topics that fall into your area of accredited responsibility at the Company. For other matters alert the relevant person who is accredited for social media clearance and allow them to respond.
e. Ensure that you do not post any material that is (or may reasonably) be considered by others to be obscene, defamatory, threatening, harassing, discriminatory or hateful against another person or entity including the Company, its employees, its contractors, its partners, its customers and clients, its competitors and/or other business-related individuals or organizations, or to make false or misleading statements; or to impersonate colleagues or third parties.
f. Do not make or respond to social media communications that could damage the Company's business reputation even indirectly or of its clients.
g. Do not disclose other people's personal information unless authorized to do so.
h. Be respectful of all individuals and communities with which you interact online. Be polite and respectful of others' opinions and avoid heated discussion and debate.
i. Respect copyright, privacy, financial disclosure and other applicable laws when publishing on social media platforms.

Failure to adhere to the above guidelines and safe guards may result in appropriate disciplinary action and/or legal against the employee (during or after employee's engagement with the Company).
